

Burns Night Dinner

On the 23rd of January 2010, the 6th Form from Boyne House celebrated the life of Robert Burns. This involved the dress code 'Tartan' (which some of us followed more strictly than others!), of course Haggis - sheep offal's - and many other Scottish rituals. For example, there was a toast to the Haggis, Scottish Whisky and the traditional bagpipes, played by Freddie Braithwaite-Exley.

It was a very enjoyable evening all around and it gave a lot of people the opportunity to get a taste of Scottish culture. Key to the evening was the authentic 'Burns menu', which included Lamb broth, Haggis and Trifle for dessert.

Robert Burns (1759 - 1796) was a Scottish national poet. He is best known for his poems written in the Scots language, although much of his writing is also in English with a "light" Scots dialect.

Overall, Boyne's first Sixth Form Dinner together with a taste of Scottish culture was a great success and everyone enjoyed it.

Nikolaus Evers
Head of Boyne

